

How to Find a Professional Adviser with Appropriate Conservation Expertise

They should be members of the following professional bodies, or equivalent:

- Architect (RIBA),
- Building Surveyor (RICS)
- Architectural Technician (CIAT)

The following websites can be helpful for finding a professional adviser:

- Royal Institute of British Architects (RIBA) www.architecture.com
- Architects Accredited in Building Conservation (AABC) www.aabc-register.co.uk
- Royal Institution of Chartered Surveyors (RICS) www.rics.org
(<https://www.rics.org/uk/surveying-profession/career-progression/accreditations/building-conservation-accreditation/>)

They should also be conservation accredited (e.g. included on the AABC register

<https://www.aabc-register.co.uk/register>, on the CIAT conservation register -

(<https://architecturaltechnology.com/find-a-practice/find-an-accredited-conservationist.html>) or be able to demonstrate experience of leading successful conservation projects on similar historic buildings.

Detailed on the following pages are some of the architects/surveyors on the accredited lists, in addition to those working locally. This is not an exhaustive list and should be considered in addition to viewing information listed on the above websites.

Stockton-on-Tees Borough Council cannot recommend or endorse any of the particular persons / companies, therefore due diligence is suggested prior to any appointment.
